

Applied Project Management Forum
Tuesday, September 19, 2017, 6:00 pm to 8:00 pm
Ethics, Not Physics

As project managers, we have an obligation to our clients, peers and superiors to hold ourselves to a high standard of ethical conduct. But what does that really mean?

Ever been in a situation where you weren't sure which ethical choice was the right one?

Sometimes there seems to be more than one ethical path, and it's hard to tell which should take precedence. Or there appear to be ethical downsides with whatever path you take.

This audience participation session will use real world situations and put it to a vote – what should you do? Which ethical perspective takes priority? And when you're stumped, where can you go for help?

Leadership 1.00

Susan Kennedy, PMP

Susan Kennedy is a Project Management Professional (PMP) with 30 years' experience leading teams. She has managed projects across the US, Canada, Mexico, Europe and Asia.

Susan is co-owner of a real estate firm, American Realty. Susan is President of the PMI Dallas Chapter, a 4,200 member volunteer organization of project professionals. She is an independent consultant and currently an instructor for a project management class at UT Dallas.

Khlood Elsayed, PMP, CISSP, CISA

Specializing in the operational efficiencies for organizations of varying complexities and sizes, Khlood is highly regarded for her ability to identify areas of opportunity and implement desired results.

Khlood has successfully managed projects that span a multitude of industries and environments, inclusive of training initiatives, business development and vendor management, infrastructure projects and software implementations.

Khlood is a member of the PMI Dallas Chapter, PMI Dallas Toastmasters and ASCEND North Texas.

Free Event RSVP here to receive your parking pass and for pizza at event.

Location: UT Dallas, 800 W. Campbell, Richardson, TX 75080,
Naveen Jindal School of Management
Davidson Auditorium, JSOM 1.118

Time: 6:00 pm-6:30 pm Pizza and Networking
 6:30 pm-8:00 pm Presentation

Questions: Contact the Project Management Program at 972-883-2656

PMPs: This event earns one PDU

The Applied Project Management Forum is held on the third Tuesday of each odd month.

Missed an event? Watch previous presentations.